

Copyright

What is copyright, why do we have copyright? To have or not to have that's a question:/\

I did not find any answer from the reading, maybe because I did not read it carefully. I will not talk about the reading website in my essay. However, I do find something from the video "everything is REMIX".

I want to talk about the meaning of copyright first. In my opinion, Copyright is a weapon using for against human inertia. 90% of us have the same goal that is to make more in this society! To make more money or to get a better life. We need to put more effort to gain more positive feedback. That's why those studies try hard in school, and web designers struggle for a new idea. But there is another way to make more! "copy-paste", A holy way to put less effort and get the same amount of feedback. Because this way, we invent copyright. And we use it to punish these cheaters who steal our work. Epically the digital work, they only need to press ctrl+c and ctrl+v to take our works. Maybe they will change a couple of words or background color, but it's still plagiarism. Hence the invention of copyright is reasonable, it forces people to push themselves and create new things.

We already talk about the copy; I never feel that the copy is shameful or harmful behavior. The premise is not using other's effort to make benefit. Everyone comes to this world with nothing. Maybe some people will have a rich daddy. And everyone needs to learn, the primary process of learning is copying, we copy other's work and imitate other's creation. In this process we in-depth analysis this stuff and absorbing it. Finally, it becomes a part of our body. Then we use all the material that we learn to create our work. And this is the process of REMIX, like in the movie Start War, director tribute to a lot of famous films. You feel like you have watched these scenes before, but it gives you a different feeling. The real meaning of copy is, use others knowledge to create better things with our style, because We are standing on giant's shoulder.

In short, the copyright will not stop people from copying, or we can say learning. On the other hand, it will encourage people to do more creation.
